DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sanders et al. (US Patent No. 5,263,188) in view of Shoda et al. (US Patent No. 5,177,801).
3. Regarding claim 1, Sanders et al. (hereinafter, "Sanders") discloses a vehicle equipped with front and rear speakers, includes a fade control which is used to apportion the sound volume between the front and rear speakers (col. 1-lines 17-20). Sanders fails to specifically teach the fader in relation to the front and rear speakers in detail. Shoda et al. (hereinafter, "Shoda") discloses a cross fader that fades-in or fades-out audio signals by moving an operation knob. When a channel is selected, from the PGM bus, the channel is faded out wherein when the channel is selected, from the PST bus, the channel is faded in (col. 1-lines 30-36). As shown in figure 4, the fader fades out or attenuates, the audio signal of a program (PGM) channel (which could be either the front or rear channel) by some arbitrary value, such as K1, and therefore the fader fades in or multiplies the audio signal of the (PST) channel (which could be either the front or rear channel) by some arbitrary value, such as k1. The computing unit and control unit is inherently taught by the reference in that the components are necessary for such an operation to occur.

4. Claims 2-5 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
